

Advanced Training:

This is a distance-learning course available to participants who have completed five days of family therapy training with Rick Whiteside. The course will focus on participants own development as a family therapist and their ability to put into practice what they have learned previously. The training is not intended as supervision.

Course Requirements:

1. Participants will be required to fill out 12 family therapy planning session forms. The form does not always need to cover the same family. The instructor will provide feedback on the forms.
2. Participants must submit two videotapes or DVDs of sessions they have conducted with families in their practice. The first one is due halfway through the training and the second is to be provided towards the conclusion. Feedback by the instructor will be given for each video, detailing strengths observed during the session and areas that need to be improved. Participants will be provided with the format for conducting the sessions. Each of the videos must be accompanied by a completed family therapy outline form as detailed in the Family Therapy 1-2-3 course.
3. Participants will be asked to fill out a Self-Development Map to identify strengths, obstacles, and pathways related to their practice of family therapy (instructions provided upon admission to course).

Course Fee: $675
